SECURITY SERVICES

The security division is headed Mr. Masindi Nethavhani, a former police LT Colonel with four years in law enforcement and a number of years' experience in the security. Meadowdine Group Security Force provides a variety of security and personal protection services including personal protection services to high-profile individuals, including executives, dignitaries, and celebrities, residential/commercial facilities protection, and security training and consulting services. Our service line includes:

Executive Protection

The executive protection service provides our high-profile clients and their families with personal protection services to insure their peace of mind. We offer a broad spectrum of protective services which will ultimately allow our clients the ability to conduct their business without worrying about threats of personal assault, kidnapping and terrorist attacks. All of our guards are highly trained operatives.

Each guard is put through an extensive background check to assure that our client is always under the supervision of a qualified individual. Our guards must be in prime physical condition and have military and/or law enforcement training specific to their functional role within the company. We realize that our client's needs differ and as a result we have developed a comprehensive approach that will effectively meet the client's demands.

Discrete Bodyguard Service

Our undercover guards provide superior protection without being intrusive to our client's activities. These "plain clothes" guards are able to blend in with the client's environment to allow the client and their guests to feel a sense of security without the typical "guard" presence that most agencies provide.
